OUR GRADS ARE HOME

MR. W. F. MILLINCHAMP

MAC LOSES AN OLD FRIEND

For the past 50 years Mr. W. F. Millinchamp has been a familiar figure around Macdonald College — first as a student, then as a member of the Agriculture staff (Agronomy Department) and finally, for the last 10 years, he has held the position of permanent secretary-treasurer of the Students' Council.

For those who don't know too much about the permanent secretary-treasurer does, let me explain why this is a most vital position. With a student body of 1350, and each student paying $26.00 in student activity fees, the sum of $35,100.00 must be disposed of. Under the present constitution of the Students' Council, it is the permanent secretary-treasurer who will:

- 1) pay all bills, disburse and collect all student monies at the request of the Student Council Treasurer.
- 2) Administer the allocation of all student funds under the direction of the Finance Committee.
- 3) Present an audited financial report to both the outgoing and incoming Students' Council at the end of each fiscal year.

When I spoke to Mr. Millinchamp on Monday, September 30th, his last day in office, he told me that it was with great regret that he is terminating his association with the students, but that he was happy to be retiring while he and his wife are young enough to enjoy the travelling they plan to do in the future. Mr. M. saw a great deal of action overseas during the First World War, after the fateful year of 1915, when his entire class here at Macdonald enlisted. After the War, Mr. M. returned to Mac, joined the staff, married and settled down. His daughter, who was vice-president of the Students' Council in her senior year, graduated from the School of Household Science in 1954 (incidentally, her husband was treasurer of the Students' Council that same year).

During the past 10 years as permanent secretary-treasurer of the Students' Council, Mr. M. has seen many changes. Until four years ago all council records, etc. were kept in the Men's Residence, but with the gift of the Student Council House, student activities have been greatly centralized. The number of students attending Mac has increased greatly over the past few years, and with this population growth, there has come a corresponding growth in the amount of business to be transacted concerning the various Student Activities.

Mr. Millinchamp has always had a great deal of faith in the students, and in their ability to assume responsibility. Those students, on the other hand, who have known him, think of Mr. Millinchamp as both a wise financial advisor and a very good friend.

We, the students of Macdonald College would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. W. F. Millinchamp for his years of faithful service to the college, and to wish him all the best in the future.

NOTICE

Students are reminded that it is very important to report to the Infirmary on the dates given them for their medical and x-ray appointments.

The x-ray machine will be on the campus for FIVE DAYS ONLY and it will NOT be possible to accommodate those who fail to report on the dates given to them at registration.

Chest x-rays and medicals are requirements of the University and any student who fails to comply with the appointments given to them will be responsible for having their own x-ray and medicals elsewhere, at their own expense.

If, by the end of November, these examinations are not completed, the student will be assessed a twenty-five dollar ($25.00) fine and if still in default by December 15th, will be suspended from the University.

Homecoming Weekend has arrived again and all the Grads are welcomed back to good'ole Mac, especially the five years honor classes. The Home-Coming Committee has great things planned and this year's meet should prove to be the best yet.

After registration of the Grads, the Committee has 'Open House' for those who wish to stroll through the buildings and reminisce about 'those good old days'. This will take place all of Saturday morning.

At 2:00 p.m. Saturday, everybody heads for the gridiron. Here we'll see the two oldest rivals of the game, Mac. vs. Bishops, and believe me, Bishop's got a real battle on their hands. Now, everybody's welcome; that mean's you too Frosh! So come on now, and show your strength.

An annual meeting is planned to meet after the football duel. This is only for the Grads, and they will discuss matters such as the Macdonald Branch of the Graduate Society and the projects on the go. Other points of interest will also be discussed.

There will be a reception at 6:00 p.m. for the Grads. Bar-B-Q steak will be the highlight of the reception. No doubt, the undergrads, "en masse", will be seen in the near vicinity ready to lick up any of the left over scraps!

A dance is planned for them Saturday night around 8:00 p.m. with a Montreal orchestra on hand. There should be about 300 to 400 Grads in attendance.

The theme of Home Coming Weekend is a reunion of old friends and professors. It is a means of keeping in touch. The Macdonald Branch of the Graduate Society on Graduation, contacts the new year's Graduates and makes them members of the Graduate Society, and through the Society, the Grads are always in touch with, and up to date with all the activities concerning them.

So come all ye students, let's show the Grads what a Home Coming Weekend is really like.

STUDENTS' SOCIETY MEETS

The first Students' Society meeting took place in the Assembly Hall on Monday, September 30. Our president Dave Appleton called the meeting to order.

The first item on the agenda was the introduction of the new Honorary President, Prof. C. Wayne Hall. He has promised to advise the Students' Council on any problem they may have.

Dave expressed hopes that cards would be here for elections today. Please check to see if they are here yet, as they must be presented when you vote.

Our numbers have increased greatly since last year. In 1962 we had 702 students in Education — now we have 810. In Agriculture (and Home Ec.) last year there were 375 — now there are 404. Also, there are now 144 post graduates.

The Freshman classes of Agriculture and Home Economics have not as yet elected their executives. The Sophomore presidents have been asked to help in these elections, to take place in the near future.

Another topic of business was the new Coffee Shop which, as you all know, is about to be built below the New Dining Hall. A committee has been formed of three members of staff and three students to arrange the plans. Jim Banting, as representative of this committee opened the floor for questioning. Apparently the rough estimate of the cost is $16,000 — $7,000 of which will be used for tables and chairs alone. He has promised that it will be finished, by the latest, the beginning of January. The original Coffee Shop, built in 1947, will be used for storage, pool, ping pong, and perhaps a conference room.

Three top men on campus told us about their programs for the coming winter. Dave Slater, chairman of the Winter Carnival, Feb. 6, 7 and 8 promises that it will be the biggest and best yet. Gene Terry, president of the Lit and Deb Society, and Marinus Van de Sande, President of the Royal (Feb. 28) also told us something of their plans.

The most important topic on the agenda was the introduction of the candidates for the councillors of the various faculties to the Students' Council. Allen Pickett and Barry Stephen have been nominated for Agriculture Councillors. Sheila Boyce, Joan Green, Heather McCuaig, and Harry Linton

BILL 60 AND QUEBEC EDUCATION

FIGURES INCORPORATED

It is the purpose of this article to clear up any misconceptions which may have arisen about "those students" in the Institute of Education. Although all of them are primarily engaged in preparing themselves to teach the youngsters of tomorrow, not all of them are arriving at their goal in the same way. Thus, we may, broadly speaking, classify the teachers into five distinct groups.

Beginning at the top of the ladder (it is not the intention of this article to cause friction), there are the Class I Diploma students. They have already completed their academic training. Possessing degrees of one sort or another, they enrol for a year of teacher-training. If successful, they are awarded a first class teaching diploma. Their course of study includes elementary and secondary methods, educational psychology, history, philosophy and other professional subjects. This year, eleven Nigerian students are registered as well as several engineering graduates. Total enrollment in the course is 108. (IG)

Next come the Class II Diploma Sophomores. These students are in their second year of teacher training at Mac. Included among them are B. ED's who will proceed to their third and fourth years at McGill and also those who will terminate their training at the end of the year and enter the teaching ranks with their second class teaching certificate. Furthermore, the groups consist of those preparing for classroom teaching and the physical education students who will teach in the gymnasium. Then too, there are a couple of 2A students, who, after obtaining temporary permits, are now trying to qualify for the certificate. The Course of study is combined, to include academic and professional. Enrollment is 196. (2 BD, 2 A).

Then, there is the Class II Diploma One-Year group. Students who have either completed senior matriculation or have an equivalent number of university credits but who do not possess degrees, qualify for this course. The course followed is similar to the other one-year courses with the emphasis on professional subjects and practice teaching. Enrollment this year stands at 98. (2 S).

The largest group in numbers is the Class II Diploma freshman contingent. These include B.E.D. students. They are beginning the first of a two-year course which will lead them to a second class teaching certificate. They, as well, consist of teachers and Phys. Eds. Enrollment totals 274. (FBD)

And last but not least (in members) stand the Temporary Permit group. These students, for varied and sundry reasons are taking a one-year course in teacher training which will grant them a licence to teach for five years. If, when the five years is up, they haven't improved their qualifications, they are rejected and abandoned by the teaching profession. Enrollment is 131. (T.P.)

Enrollment figures for the Institute of Education at Mac show a total of 807 students. In more practical terms, this figure reads 618 women, 189 men. Even the most naive freshman math student could readily calculate that this works out to something like 3.27 women for every man. The only problem remaining then, is what are we going to do with that 27 remained? Any suggestions?

BILL 60 EXPLAINED

Ed. note:

This article was made possible through the co-operation of the Institute of Education, Macdonald College and was supplemented with information from the McGill Daily and the Loyola News.

What do you know about Bill 60? Is it a term you have heard—but if questioned, you would have to stammer and hesitate? Perhaps a brief explanation of Bill 60, the events leading to its formation, and a forecast of its influence on Quebec Education would be an aid.

The educational system in Quebec is cumbersome and inefficient. It is now divided in many ways with the religious and language divisions being most obvious. There are wide channels between academic and technical education, as well as the primary-secondary schools and the universities. Education in Quebec now costs nearly 800 million dollars annually — almost one quarter of the provinces spending. As well as this, education has become a very important part of our lives and will be more so in the future. It is therefore desirable to have as efficient a system as possible.

When the present provincial government was elected, part of their campaign was a promise that a royal commission would be formed to investigate the educational chaos in Quebec. "The Royal Commission of Enquiry on Education" was formed in 1961. Its eight members included qualified men from provincial universities and businesses. It was under the direction of the Right Reverend Alphonse-Marie Parent of Laval University.

The Commission published its first volume in April 1963 and from the recommendations contained therein, Bill 60 was

ACTIVITIES MEETING

It was brought up before the meeting that such committees as those in charge of The Winter Carnival and Community Chest should be represented on the Activities Committee. It was pointed out that Carol Phéné is in charge of the Old Recreation Centre for its duration.

After considerable discussion the Committee decided to meet on the third Tuesday of every month. One reason for this was to facilitate the compiling of the calendar correlations which are to be published the first of every month (this month's calendar correlations will be out next Mon. Oct. 7.). This year, through considerable effort, annual activities have been planned so that they will not conflict. For instance Community Chest moved to Oct. to prevent conflict with the Winter Carnival and this year Skit Night is featured on the programme for Community Chest week.

Class plays begin Oct. 23. Sadie Hawkins week was arranged to follow Mid-term exams i.e. from Nov. 12-16. Nov. 23 will feature the Teacher's Prom.

For those of you who are not familiar with the function of Activities Committee, I will attempt to give a brief explanation. Activities Committee is composed of the Presidents of all Major activities on campus (except class pres.). The purpose of this committee is to co-ordinate the activities of various student groups and to "iron out" any administrative problems.

drawn up. This Bill is soon to go before the Provincial Legislature, and if passed (as it almost certainly will be), will bring many changes to provincial education.

Some of the points recommended by the Commission were:

— The appointment of a Minister of Education whose function will be to promote and co-ordinate educational services at all levels, including private and public sectors.

— The creation of a Superior Council of Education which will advise the Minister.

— The merger of the Department of Education and the Ministry of Youth to form the Ministry of Education which will have jurisdiction over all teaching services at present.

— The Minister be required to proceed by means of regulations in dealing with the following matters:

1. programme of study, examination standards, official diplomas
2. Qualifications of teaching personnel.

The services of the Ministry of Education be grouped in three divisions, each headed by a Director General:

- Division of Instruction
- Division of Administration
- Division of Planning.

A diagram of how this would operate has been included above. A lot of thoughts and planning has gone into these recommendations. However, while many objections have been raised, success seems to be in sight now — the bill is ready for Legislature and a special session may be called this month to deal with it. There had been objections to some of the points by the Roman Catholic Clergy but informed sources have revealed a compromise between the bishops and Quebec Youth Minister Jean Gerin-Lajoie so little now stands in its way. Premier Lesage may however, defer the bill till January, when the Bishops have returned from the Ecumenical Council in Rome in spite of Cardinal Leger's approval of the amendments.

Gerin-Lajoie, who would become the Minister of Education when the bill is passed, has been one of the strongest supporters. He has toured the province extensively to generate support for it and is reported to be prepared to wage an all-out cabinet fight to have the bill presented before the end of this year. Reasons for presenting it as soon as possible centre around the possibility of having the recommendations in effect by the end of the next school year. It was shelved at the last session over Gerin-Lajoie's strong objections.

Despite majority support in the province the courts could declare the Bill 60 null. However most of the citizens of Quebec, no matter what faith or language, if concerned with the problems of Education in this province, are in support of Bill 60 and wish to see it carried through.

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

Dear Sir:

I feel that I must write to you in order to reassure your correspondent H. T. in the Sept. 20th issue and to dispel any misapprehensions he or others may have regarding a possible loss of freedom by the residents of Brittain Hall. The students in Residence have always been free to come and go whenever they please and providing this is done without disturbing the whole neighbourhood there is absolutely no objection as far as I am concerned. Ideas of curfews or 'lights out' would be abhorrent to me.

However, Macdonald College is no longer the college situated in quiet countryside which it used to be. It is gradually being engulfed by the creeping metropolis of Montreal and made to face some of the problems which this brings. Rather more stringent security measures are therefore becoming more and more necessary and it is for this reason that some of the outer doors of Brittain Hall are being locked at 12:00 P.M. each night. The main entrance, however, will remain open and in a notice posted in Residence, I have asked for the cooperation of those who normally use the other entrances after 12:00 P.M. to bear with the inconvenience which the locking causes.

Yours faithfully,

R. Knowles
Warden
Brittain Hall.

Dear Sir:

Free education? Hah!

We don't expect to come to college completely unburdened of expenses but you'd think MAC might try to alleviate this load wherever possible! We are referring specifically to the college bookshop. We have many examples of underhanded robbery at our disposal but will present you with only two of them.

At the top of the list is one of the many English books we are compelled to buy new, as the course is being introduced only this year. "A College Book of Modern Verse" edited by "Robinson and Rideout", sold for $6.25 is one of English 227 biggest sponges. Considering this book contains approximately two hundred fifty poems of which we will be dealing with only twenty, could it not at least be sold in a paperback edition?

Secondly, The Music staff of the Institute of Education prepares a bundle, containing one package of typewritten sheets, two packages of index sheets, one package of staff paper and a large loose-leaf, and sells that for $5.65 under the title "Music Kit" to unsuspecting Sophomores. The typewritten sheets, all that is required from the bookshop, should be able to be purchased separately for no more than $1.75. Staff paper could easily be obtained elsewhere for a meagre $0.50 and the remaining materials are certainly not necessary to FURTHER THE STUDENT'S KNOWLEDGE OF THE COURSE! Why are we obliged to spend our money on such trifles? These, Sir, are only two of our grievances where money and books are concerned. We have no fool-proof solution to the problem but couldn't the matter be looked into?

Sincerely

Heather E. Wales BD 2
Joanne L. Whiting 2 D

Dear Sir:

Before I registered at Mac I had been full of hopes and ideals about life at college. Let me tell you how sadly I was disappointed right from the first day.

First of all, on September 4, I had some difficulties for I was lacking official documents on my last credit. To my greatest horror, the arranging of the whole thing was done by a telephone call and did not take more than ten minutes. Why, if I may be so bold as to inquire, don't you have red tape at "Mac"? Why didn't the general office demand an official document, signed and stamped by the University where I have come from? How can you arrange things so simply and quickly, when you could do it in a beautifully long, complicated and bureaucratic way? This, if you forgive me for my expression, is just outrageous.

Secondly, why is it that all the librarians smile? Why on earth are they so friendly? Why don't they show any sign of an approaching nervous breakdown, like they do at the university where I studied before? I think this attitude is entirely wrong. In addition, why is it that I can obtain any textbook and suggested reading in the library within a day? Why don't you set up a nice lending system so one could wait for two, three or four weeks for a book?

I sincerely hope that you will do something about it.

Yours very truly,

Dear Sir:

Was it noticeable or was it noticeable at Monday's Student Council Assembly that a certain group of students, who in the past have not been noted for Mac spirit, joined the ranks of their predecessors when they cast their votes against the Student's Council even before today's elections? At 3:30 the Assembly Hall was well filled with students in the 2S group of the Institute of Education. When their lecture terminated at 4:00 for the meeting of the student body, did they remain to meet THEIR Student Council executive? Did they remain to see the candidates seeking election to represent THEM?

The meeting was literally brought to their door steps, their buses were held back for them, we asked them to reconsider and re-enter the Assembly Hall, but would they? With noses turned on high they bulldozed down the stairs, which were filled with waiting students, to congregate, we presume underneath the clock to sprawl over the front steps of the Main Building and to walk across the oval to the Coffee Shop! For this they pay student activity fees?

According to the McGill Daily of Monday, September 30th, the truce negotiated by the "Association Générale des Etudiants de l'Université de Montréal" (AGEUM) and the university administration was scheduled to end at noon, Monday, Sept. 30th, with no sign of an extension in sight. This reporter spoke to Mr. D. are up for Education Representatives; and Patricia Brennan, Judy Meeks, and Bev Stewart for Home Ec rep.

Because Darell Wood was the only nominee for the post grads, he was invited to accept the position then and there.

The floor was then open for discussion, and then the meeting was adjourned.

Although the Assembly Hall was reasonably filled, there were only 484 people present out of a student body of 1358! It was also noted by this humble reporter that many students were heading down the stairs (not up) when the meeting began even though their busses had been purposely held. How can there be a student government when the students don't care enough to be there to see that it is done properly?

NEW CHEM. BLDG.

Did you know that we are getting a new Chemistry building, folks? If you are not aware of what is going on around campus, then your answer is probably an emphatic NO, which by the way was my reaction too. So to find out about this new addition to our campus, I trotted over to see Prof. Warkentin.

Professor Warkentin is in the Soil Science department and his main concern is with the physical aspect of the soil. His department will be moved from the old building and will take up their quarters in this new and spacious building.

The architect is Mr. Blanchford, of Montreal, who seems to have done a very good job of using the available space to its full limits.

By this time you're probably asking yourself why I'm not telling you about the building. Well, let's start now. The new Chemistry building will occupy the area where the archway from the main building to the chemistry now is. It will not quite reach the main building so that it will take up the least space possible. The only problem is that they'll have to cut down some of the trees nearby, but at least one row of trees will be left. It won't detract from Mac's beauty but rather will add to it. The new building will be in the traditional red brick and will rest on a steel framework.

It will have three floors not including the basement. In the basement and first floor will be the soil science research lab and the other offices. There will be a passageway on the first floor leading from the main building to the new chemistry building. Now here's the exciting part for you who aren't interested in either chemistry, soil or physics.

On the second and third floors will be a new, huge lecture theatre that will seat up to 300 students. This theatre will be available to all the faculties at Mac.

The plans have been approved and at this time they are putting in the necessary final details. If all goes well, and we hope it will, the construction should start this fall and be ready for next fall, just in time for a new crop of soil scientists.

EDITORIAL

Home Coming Week-end is an appropriate time for under-graduates to compare themselves and their school to the students and conditions of the past. Physically our campus has changed considerably in the past few years as also our social environment has changed. It is generally felt that all these changes are for the better and help provide a graduate who is adequately prepared to assume his position in the working world when he leaves.

With all these developments it is inevitable that the personality of our student body differs from the personalities of the classes represented by our graduates on campus this week-end. They will notice that our social life is more streamlined and mechanized to include larger masses of students and for this reason individuals become socially less conspicuous. College pranks of the calibre of the post-war years are on the decline and in their place well planned programmes of athletics, dances, and parties now prevail.

Some people may look on the situation as being a little sad and claim it calls for a certain loss of individuality. This however is not entirely the case. It is only the framework of our social system that has changed. Individually students are the same now as they have been for decades. They conform to the curious moral code that is understood only by under-graduates and more often than not approved of only by the same group. All the organizational talents of students that were in the past used to pull the classic capers is now channeled to these more respectable fields.

Academically we may be superior to our predecessors but no more adequately prepared to meet the needs of modern business that they were in their day so even though our system and courses have changed they still serve the same purpose as they did in the past.

MARY QUILLIAMS

As Secretary of the Students' Council, Mary Quilliams is a well qualified, conscientious girl with a unique personality. An 'Aggie' at heart she is registered in third year Agriculture and is majoring in Commerce.

Most of her life has been spent living on a farm in Foster Quebec, a part of the Eastern Townships. Although she agrees that 'God's Country' is the most beautiful part of Quebec, her future plans include owning a farm in Ontario with lots of cattle and other farm animals.

Originally Mary planned to take Chemistry here at Mac, but decided that Chem. labs were not her specialty. Advice from both her sister and brother, graduates of Macdonald, did convince her that this is the best college. Throughout her high school years and so far at Mac, Sciences have been her strong subjects. Mary has no plans to do Post Graduate work but instead hopes to teach Commercial courses at high school level before settling down to farming (and a husband).

As one of five female Agriculture students in third year Mary sees great advantages in her situation. Needless to say she does not find constant male company in the least way awkward.

Mary decided to run for Secretary last Spring when her desire to know how Student government functions became overwhelming. An admiration of leadership and organization played a big part in her campaign. She hopes that these qualities will be instilled in her by the end of the term.

February is Mary's favorite month at Mac. For the past two years the 'Royal' has seen Mary passing many hours up at the Barns with her calf. Coincidence allowed her to show the same calf two years in a row.

Carnival weekend is the best time for student to forget their studies, according to Mary. She follows each event with great enthusiasm.

Mary believes that each individual at college should know exactly what he is best suited for an capable of undertaking. There are enough activities for everyone to find at least one specialty.

As she carries out her Council work, Mary lives by her own motto of 'Live Today'. She also believes that individuality should be more important than agreeing completely with Society — within reason.

Best of luck to a hard-working Secretary and colleague.

As a rather diminutive graduate student residing on campus, I hardly feel capable of replying to an article directed at "God-Men," however.... My question is a simple one: Why were the graduate students presented with a vast program in a half-vast manner?

Knowing very little about the Royal, and even less about the people around us, we were confronted with the problem of selecting a representative for this committee. At the time, not one placard had been issued concerning the program. Furthermore, the description delivered by the committee chairman at a recent Students' Council meeting was a far cry from the explanation we received.

Even if this were not the case, one fact still remains. Ours is a motley crew. Firstly, the graduate class is comprised of men and women from all over the world. Secondly, Montrealers who form the majority of students, commute to classes. This situation hinders any close relationship between commuter and resident. Thirdly, many of the graduate students attend Macdonald for one year. During this short time, the group with which one commuter travels is, for the most part, the only one to which he relates. As a result, commuter-resident and commuter-commuter communication is limited.

Last Friday's paper labeled our attitude toward student affairs apathetic. The attitude, expressed in terms of action to adjourn the meeting, could hardly be termed apathetic. Granted, the motion on the floor was negative with respect to choosing a representative, but it was not a negation of action and therefore not apathy. However, the issue goes a little deeper than a debate on semantics. I am sure the Students' Council is fully aware that to charge an uncoordinated group with apathy is futile. Nevertheless it is traditional to believe that all Graduate Students live in an Ivory Tower, isolated from the campus community. They are concerned solely with "cultural pursuits" (whatever that means) and cannot be bothered with trivia.

I have no idea how much a belief came into being. The following, however, may be of some interest to certain of the students: since the first action was taken, regarding a representative for the Royal, our "August assembly" convened once more. The class sends John Rogers, a brave volunteer.

The lazy but insistent buzzing of a fly echoes through my consciousness
mingling with the drone of his voice.

A patch of sun on the floor
brightens and widens and the dust rises.

Why are we here?
A day of beauty — deep sky, flaunting
autumn trees, teasing wind.

Who has the right to keep us captive at a time like this.

He is miserable,
he stumbles and looses

no one cares.

Mr. Keith Roache

Our "Old Man of the Council" has in his term of office proved himself to be a worthy representative of the Post Graduate society and the whole student body. To the position he brought a great deal of experience which he gathered from his four years here as an undergraduate and two years in his native Jamaica where he did extension work for the government of Jamaica.

As an undergraduate he distinguished himself as a student leader and athlete. As an athlete he played for our intercollegiate soccer team for three years as well as participating in many unspecified sporting events in and around the residence he now represents as a resident assistant. As a student leader he was president of his class in his sophomore and junior years and Director of Publications in his senior year. He was in this latter capacity that he sat on students' council. During his final year he also found time to be a director of the College Royal, be of the War Memorial Committee and be the Valedictorian for his class.

From Mac he went to Iowa State university where he obtained his M.Sc. in Animal Genetics. For the past two years he has been doing extension work in this field for his native Jamaican government. He returned to us this last year to work for his doctorate in Animal Genetics.

We wish Keith the best of success in this endeavour and a quiet and restful year as resident assistant.

Miss Carol Phené

Carol Phené, the Home Economics representative for '62 to '63 is an all round girl. She has represented her faculty very capably since October of last year up until now, when the new representative is elected.

She told me that the duties of a council member are varied. While she was on Council, she represented the Home Economics faculty but they dealt with affairs concerning the whole campus. Carol gave the opinions of the Home Ecs. but the decisions made were the decisions of the whole Council.

Carol mentioned some of the qualities necessary to a Council member. First, the member must be able to express his or her opinions well and secondly, he must not be afraid to express his own ideas and must not just "follow along with the crowd". These are points to consider during the elections today.

Carol has participated in many of the different facets of Council duties as well as many other extra-curricular activities. She was on the Purchasing Committee, with Jim Banting and together they reorganized the system of buying jackets, pins, and rings. She helped with Orientation, such as the picnic and meeting the frosh when they first arrived.

Carol has been active in W.A.A. and has served on the executive of both her first and now again in her fourth year. She really likes to play in Interclass sports, especially football and hockey. Carol is playing on the Home Ec. football team for the pep rally on Friday night so, come on out and cheer for her! She has entered the Royal Fashion Show each year and this year she is in charge of it. She is organizing a Home Ec. club on campus for any girl who is interested whether she is in Home Ec. Agriculture, or Education. The purpose of this club is to promote Home Economics; to learn more about the field of home economics and to discover more of the opportunities waiting for a graduate of this course.

Carol, who comes from Nitro, Quebec (near Valleyfield), told me that she hated high school but that she loves college because it is an opportunity to explore on her own and to think for herself. In college, the thoughts are not put into your heads, you must discover ideas for yourself.

Carol's parting advice to all students was to "say what you believe and do not be a blind sheep following the leader. Always practise what you preach but preach what you believe in."

ATTENTION — YOUR OWN SULLIVAN SHOW ON CAMPUS

On Wednesday the 16th of October you will be treated to your very own Ed. Sullivan show right here on campus and what's more you could preform in it if you so desire. In case you think I am being funny let me assure you that I couldn't be more serious, for an amateur night we hope to give you the best.

How do you get in the act? Simply contact your class representative in the Lit and Deb. executive and inform same about what you would like to do — make sure your name and your act are recorded. However you have another alternative just get hold of either of these three girls, of if you happen to be greedy get hold of all three of them together!!! and give them your name, class, and act. Tina Selick, Julie Overland, and Roonie Singer — they are the members of the Amateur Night Committee. I will advise you to do this as soon as possible for I know that they will soon have a crowded program and they might not be able to squeeze you in.

Remember participation in the Amateur night show will not only earn you some prize money, it will also count towards your class points for the Judy Bougar Trophy. So rally round and let's put on a "Jolly good show".

ii) Shall carry out and record all financial transactions as passed at the meetings of the Executive Committee.

A general assembly of all those in the Institute of Education will be called on THURSDAY, Oct. 10th. At this meeting, you will be introduced to the candidates. The campaigning for this election will begin the same day, and will last until 6:00 p.m. the day previous to the election. The election will take place FRIDAY, Oct. 18th.

MONTREAL (CUP) — Hundreds of students led by Pierre Marois, president of AGEUM ("Association Générale des Etudiants de l'Université de Montréal") boycotted two cafeterias against express orders of the Rector, Mgr. Irénée Lussier, yesterday.

No broken bones, bruises or scratches, no riots or police cars — only a peaceful, well-organized protestation of increased cafeteria prices took place at the University of Montreal social centre at lunchtime.

The cause of the student protest was the cafeteria's price-raise from 75 cents to 85 cents a meal, instituted by the university administration to bolster its sagging budget.

Mgr. Lussier issued an open letter to the university preceeding the threatened boycott declaring that the AGEUM executive would be expelled should the belligerent attitude of the students continue.

Marois has said that if the Rector does expell anyone, "the whole student body would go on strike."

Mgr. Lussier stated that the University allowed its students as much of a voice in university affairs as any other university in Canada. He continued to say that the students' only reaction thus far has been one of discontent and abuse against university officials leading as far as open strikes and rebellion. He added that the reason for the ten cent increase was that last year the cafeteria ran a $43,000 deficit. Instead of lowering the quality of the food, they were raising their prices.

The AGEUM executive does in fact declare that it is not fighting over a matter of ten cent increases. The issue at stake is "The more serious one of principle." Said Marois in a special statement to the McGill Daily — "We, the students, refuse to pay more than the original 75 cents per meal. We have been promised steps towards free education and suddenly our fees and the cafeteria prices were raised. All the protests we made, all our attempts at negotiation were disregarded by the university. Our boycott of the cafeteria is a formal protestation against these reverse measures toward free education, and against the university's attitude toward the student voice in campus affairs."

(The AGEUM executive is partially angered over the circumvention by the university administration, of the faculty-administration committee specially established to deal with such matters as cafeteria increase in prices.)

The actual boycott began at 11:30 a.m., as students carrying placards with such quips as — "On n'est pas au Kon Tiki — 75 cents c'est amplement suffisant pour nos appétits" (We are not at the Kon Tiki — 75 cents is sufficiently ample for our appetites) filed quietly into the cafeteria to eat their regular noon-time meal.

The only catch was that although prices posted all read 85 cents, protestors received proper change from AGEUM cashiers and paid the old price of 75 cents. As they paid their money, all boycotters were asked to sign a black book by a social centre staff member favorably inclined toward student policies.

A problem arose when AGEUM cashiers ran out of change, since waitresses refused to charge less than 85 cents. Students were then ordered to pay only with as much silver as they could find. This resulted in the happy situation for some students, who barely managed to pull out anywhere from 12 to 30 cents of loose change.

One student commented, "La déclaration du recteur, c'est la guerre!" (The declaration of the Rector means war!), another said, "La cafétéria est un service pour les étudiants qui devrait être gratuit." (The cafeteria is for students and should be free.)

One protestor against the protestors, dressed in black, paid 85 cents and refused to sign the demonstrators' book.

We may live without con-
[science, and live

JED OF JOE'S

A SHORT STORY BY
CLAUDE X. LaBRECQUE

Jed was tall, like a beanpole, and he existed — yes existed — on God knows what — the only visible nourishing thing being his nightly pint at Joe's. Even then he didn't tip the waiter (everyone knew he couldn't afford it and even the waiters forgave him). His whole frame gave the impression of a dying plant expelling its reservoir of energy while wasting away its precious life. But his eyes were like washed pearls shining in the dark, promising untold riches.

That night, Mr. Swank College came in looking his usual confident self. Mr. Swank College was the man about campus reeking of Old Spice, Old Chum, and wearing an old new suit. He positively filled the place with his presence. But there was much to fill, for Joe's was almost empty. It was Monday night.

Mr. Swank College never sat alone, but as he glanced about the bar, he could see no one except Jed, alone in a corner. Due to his own loneliness and the fact that there wasn't any of the school crowd (thus he wouldn't lose status), he strolled over to the corner and said, as he slid into a seat opposite Jed, in his assured monosyllabic way, "Quiet."

"Like my old man's funeral," replied Jed, his eyes focusing on Swank.

They spoke of trivial things, Swank getting more and more bored with his companion, and Jed becoming more talkative, and 'energetic' — if such a word could describe him.

Swank leaned over to Jed and whispered, "see that cute Freshette with the tall guy walking in now? Well, she's been trying to get me to date her for the last month."

"You sure got the knack with women", said Jed, his tall frame bending like bamboo that barely escapes splintering in the wind.

"Well like they say, Jed, some of us got it and others don't."

"But I'll make you a bet that there is some girls you can't get," Jed dared.

"Name one."

And Jed named one and Swank put down thirty dollars. Jed covered it and the bartender held the money for them. Tuesday night was to be the date night and Wednesday night the winner was to collect his spoils.

Wednesday night came and Jed was seated once more in the corner, nursing his beer. The house waxed and waned, bubbling with an onslaught of students. Then toward midnight, business tapered and finally at closing, the bartender signaled Jed, as he did nocturnally, and Jed sprang up. He zipped his faded Mac jacket and was engulfed by the driving rain and the fog as he stepped out into the street. He half sprinted diagonally across the road, but as he reached the other side, he turned right around and began walking in the opposite direction. As he stupidly plodded on, his eye caught the lights suddenly of a building across the street. He turned towards it, shielding himself from the wind with his elbow as a door opened and Mr. Swank College slowly walked out. There was a hush. Surprised, they both looked at one another with astonished gazes. Over to the left and above Swank's shoulder was a shingle which read :

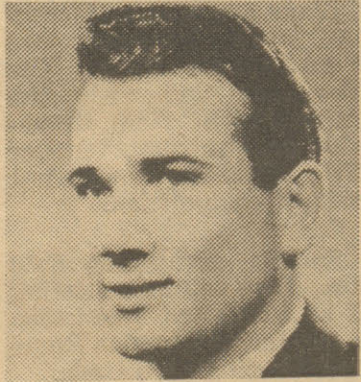

G. O. Patton, M.D.
Psychiatrist

No one knew how Jed managed to exist.

Whatever became of:

Jess E. James,

CLASS OF '677

A life-long student of transportation systems, James will be best remembered for his provocative major thesis "Iron Hosses I Have Broke In." Working towards his doctorate, he formed a research team with his brother and toured the West, taking copious quantities of notes as they went. Soon the whole country was talking about the James boys and they were in great demand as guests of honour at civic parties (neckties to be worn). Despite a reputation which grew by leaps and bounds (mainly on to passing trains) Jess E. James remained an elusive, retiring person who spurned formal gatherings no matter how pressing the invitation. A superb horseman, Mr. James had a way with colts. His untimely end came when he was engaged in breaking in a new one — a 45, to be exact.

INTERCOLLEGIATE FOOTBALL

Tomorrow, the Aggies open the regular season against their arch-rivals, Bishops Gaitors. Bishops this year is much the same team which barely edged Macdonald last year. However, the Green Machine is an almost entirely a different squad.

There was only one exhibition game this year and in that the score was 20-6 in favour of the Verdun Juniors. In this game, several things were apparent. The most obvious and most serious flaw in this year's team is a lack of experienced defensive line men. Coach Pugh has been experimenting at defensive tackle and defensive end, but no standout at these positions has emerged. Verdun made plenty of yardage around the ends and there was no sustained rush on their quarterback.

A second cause of concern in this year's team is a lack of depth. Too many players are going to have to go two ways. Desire alone cannot carry a ballplayer through sixty minutes of tough football. Several key men are now going both ways. If injuries lay low any of these players, the team will be in serious trouble. Even if injuries are avoided, we are bound to fade in the second half as evidenced in the Verdun game. At half time, the score was 7-6 — the final score was 20-6.

However, there are some brighter sides to the picture. Alex Bewer is a player to watch in the backfield. At quarterback we should be stronger than last year with George Wall ignoring every time out. Terry Bradley adds a break-away threat at halfback. Brian Murray is improved over last year. Jeff Mills has shown himself to be an excellent receiver at end. And we still have Arie Hoogendoorn, Dave Lees, and Don "Tubby" Graham as well as All star anchor-men Garry Waltho and Jim Dickie.

The game against Bishops is going to be tough. Every player will have to give 100%. Nobody at Macdonald likes anything better than to beat a Bishops team. This has got to be the toughest, most decisive game of the year for the Aggies, and the more people out watching Saturday afternoon, the better the team will do.

This is Hate Bishops Week, so let's pack the stands on Saturday and watch the Aggies cut the cocky Gaitors down to size.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

The big news for Women's sports this week is the coming Tabloid meet on Tues. Oct. 8th, starting at 1:30 p.m. Lectures will be cancelled for that afternoon.

Your class representatives will be organizing class teams! Do take part! It is bound to be an afternoon full of fun. You do not have to be a track star for these events. Most people take part to enjoy the afternoon and to gain participation points for their class towards the interclass sports shield. So see you Tues. at the football field. In case of rain it will be held Wed. Oct. 9th. Any girls interested in officiating see Sandy LeRoy.

Managers are needed for the following sports:

Archery

Badminton

Swimming: speed

interclass

Basketball: senior intercollegiate intermediate intercollegiate

interclass

Ice Hockey

Volleyball

If you are interested in being a manager of one of these sports please sign the sheet on the Stewart Hall W.A.A. notice board, and you will be contacted in the near future.

Classes in beginning swimming are starting on Oct. 3 and will continue for 10 lessons until Nov. 5. On every Tues. and Thurs. If you are interested contact Suzan Green, Room 237, Laird Hall.

For those who are competing in the Tennis Tournament, remember that the second round must be completed by Oct. 8th.

The soccer team plays its first game on Sat. Oct. 5th against Bishops. The game is being played here starting at 2:30 p.m. Give the girls your support. At the present time the fall schedule is as follows:

Sat. Oct. 5 2:30 p.m. Bishops at Mac

Tues. Oct. 15 7:30 p.m. McGill at Mac

Thurs. Oct. 31 7:30 p.m. Mac at McGill

Sat. Nov. 2 4:00 p.m. Mac at Bishops.

Girls who would like to play softball please take note:

The softball equipment will be available on Sun. afternoons and early evenings. You must get your own teams to play. For the equipment contact Heather Wales, Rm. 147, Stewart Hall.

To keep up-to-date on Women's Sports watch the W.A.A. notice board in Stewart Hall.

FITNESS

This week, under the direction of J. H. Widdop of the Physical Education Department, our College's athletes underwent a series of fitness tests. This was in preparation for an individual fitness programme which will be assigned to these athletes to prepare them for the coming hockey and basketball seasons.

Mr. Widdop hopes to be able to fit each athlete with an isometric and isotonic programme which will fulfil his particular needs. The basketball ball players will have agility and leg strength stressed whereas the hockey players will be fitted for their contact sport by stressing general hardness coupled with stamina and wrist strength.

These programmes will include both weights and fixed isometric apparatus. It is felt that this will do much for the general fitness of these athletes and relieve them from the grind of working themselves into shape after the season has started.

SOCCER

Another season in Soccer got underway at Mac last Sat. afternoon, Sept. 28th, at 2:00 p.m., when Bishops played the "Aggies".

From the very beginning, it seemed that this was going to be a hard fought game as both sides were playing very well. But late in the first half, the heartbreaker came, it started when a Mac player touched the ball allowing Bishops a free kick. The ball was kicked, a Mac defenseman stepped it and passed it back to his goalie, but a Bishop forward quickly moved in, collided with the goalie as the ball slowly crossed the goal-line. The goal was credited to Bristowe and so ended the first half with Bishops ahead 1-0.

In the second half, Dawson scored a beautiful goal on a pass from Bristowe; down 2-0, Mac fought back courageously, but in vain. Late in this half, Mac's goalie, Vandevlist, made several big saves, but for his brilliant goal tending the score may have been higher. Mac's "big John" Elwin played a spectacular game and was a big factor in preventing Bishops from adding to the score.

The game was fairly well attended and I hope that future home games, if not better, at least be the same, because there's nothing like a cheering crowd to urge a player on to victory.

INTERCLASS FOOTBALL

Interclass football is underway again. Monday night saw the first two games go by with the Freshmen Aggies taking their first victory by default from the unfortunate 1st year teachers who didn't field a team. The Juniors trampled the Sophomore teachers by a decisive 26-6 count in the second tilt of the night.

Results of the other games this week were not available at press-time but will be published in the next edition of the Failt-Ye.

The main problem facing the convenor for Interclass football is the scarcity of referees. These are urgently needed so if there is any one who has football knowledge and wishes to make a few easy bucks, there's a list for you to sign on the sports bulletin board in Brittain Hall.

Of course everyone is welcome and invited to come out and support his class team, so let's see some cheering sections from the girl's residences and some ardent players from the men's.

Results from Interclass Football

Results of the games played last week:

1.—Agriculture I Win vs Teachers I Default

2.—Agriculture III 26 vs Teachers III 6

Games to be played this week:

1.—Ags. II vs Post Grads on Monday at 7:00 p.m.

2.—Ags. IV vs Teachers I on Monday at 8:00 p.m.

3.—Ags. I vs Teachers III on Tuesday at 8:00 p.m.

4.—Ags. II vs Teachers I on Wednesday at 7:00 p.m.

5.—Ags. III vs Post Grads on Wednesday at 8:00 p.m.

6.—Ags. IV vs Teachers II on Thursday at 8:00 p.m.

WOODSMEN

WHISPERS

Plans are well underway for Mac's Inter-collegiate Woodsmen teams. The Woodsmen will visit the University of New Brunswick on Saturday, October 27th, 1963, for their first taste of competition.

Sunday night, at 6:30 p.m., there will be a meeting of all interested Woodsmen in the Junior Common Room with Coach Bob Watson.

A special invitation is extended to anyone wishing to participate in this intercollegiate sport. Those interested should see Ed Kayler, Room 275, or Doug Avery, Room 161. Practising will start next week.

PEP RALLY

Here is your chance to parade by torchlight. Yes sir! And all the trimmings and goings on which always occur in torch parades. Start at 7:00 p.m. in front of the Main Building. You are supposed to stop on the upper end of the football field. I know some of you guys will fall by the wayside and not make it. Watch you don't get strung up with the effigy of the Bishops player — might get burned along with it.

Along about 7:40 p.m. we hope you will have managed to disentangle yourself sufficiently to watch the introductions of the FOOTBALL PLAYERS and Harriers which are to enter battle with Bishops.

But this is not all. You have just got to stay on and watch our valiant Walkiries, Senior Home Ec's vs Sonh Home Ec's play THE GIRLEY FOOTBALL GAME — and you guessed right, they will be fully equipped for a real honest to goodness tackle football game. THIS I HAVE TO SEE, and I expect you are also of the same mind.
